

Color Tendencies and Disabilities

Through my work over 10 years with students and the use of color (filters, paper, inks, light bulbs, highlighters, etc.), certain tendencies for color choice have shown up in some disability groups. Take a minute to guess which of the following color combinations are often seen the following disability groups:

- ADD/ADHD
- LD
- Autism
- Visual Impairment
- Down Syndrome
- Emotional Disturbance (depression)

Students with _____
have a tendency to
choose this color
combination.

Students with _____
have a tendency to
choose this color
combination.

Students with _____
have a tendency to
choose this color
combination.

Students with _____
have a tendency to
choose this color
combination.

Students with _____
have a tendency to
choose this color
combination.

Students with _____
have a tendency to
choose this color
combination.

Remember:
These are TENDENCIES only!